MISCELLANEOUS READING.

The unhappy are indisposed to employ ment, all occupations are wearisome and disgusting in prospect, at a time when every thing, even life itself, is full of weariness and disgust. Yet, the unhappy must be employ ed, or they will go mad. Comparatively blessed are they if they are situated in lamilies, where claims and duties abound, and cannot be escaped. In the pressure of business there is present safety and ultimate relief. Harder is the lot of those who have few necessary occupations, enforced by other claims than their own harmleseness and profitableness. Reading often faile; now and then it may beguile; but much oftener the attention is languid, the thoughts wander, and associations with the subject of grief are awakened. Lidies who find reading will not do, will ob tain to relief in sewing; sewing is pleasant enough, in moderation, to those whose minds FIENUM .- The Gold Medal Erasive Liquid are at ease; but it is an employment which Every Woman her Own Lawyer, a private I for removing stains of Greese, or Oil of is trying to the nerves when long continued at best, and nothing can be worse for the harrassed, and for those who wish to escape from themselves.
